Bethel Methodist Church Will Have All Day Service Sunday

A dedicatory service will be held on Sunday May 8 at the Bethel Methodist Church with Rev. Robert E. Farless of Osmin, Illinois bringing the dedicatory message.

An all day service will be held with dinner on the grounds. The church is located two and one-half miles NE of Murray and may be reached by going to the Lake Stop Grocery on the East Highway then turning left and going one mile.

The new brick church was built by the members, and has complete facilities to carry on the work of the church.

A brief history of the church was written by one of the members and is as follows:

On the second day of October in the year 1848, Micajah Dark and wife, Elizabeth, deeded to A. Hood, M. Saunders and Thomas Hood, one acre of land with all woods and waters, for the purpose of erecting a church house thereupon, for the special benefit of the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

On the eighth day of April 1854 the deed was recorded and a board of trustees for Bethel Church was appointed.

It is not known what kind of building was erected for the first Bethel Church but there must have been one. It is known that in 1880 a frame building was erected and used for 73 years.

Along about 1930 the church went into a decline. Older members were passing away and many of the younger ones were going to towns and other communities. Church services were poorly attended and there was no Sunday School. Conference was thinking seriously of discontinuing Bethel Church. Then in 1934, Reverend Hershel Blankenship came on the scene and he asked conference to give him a chance to work with Bethel and help it continue to be a church.

Through his prayers, his preaching and his wonderful personality, Bethel Church began to come alive again. The members and others in the community began to take an active interest in church affairs.

Over the years, new members were added and in 1953 there was felt the need for a new church with sufficient class rooms for the ever-growing Sunday School. So with very little money but a great amount of faith and promised help from conference, the new church was started.

Reverend Bob Farless, who was

Otis Gatewood Will Speak On Thursday

Otis Gatewood of Lubbock, Texas, missionary in Germany, will speak Thursday night at 7:30 at the Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ and will present a report on the work in Germany. Everyone is invited.

Gatewood, together with Roy Palmer, Oklahoma City, was the first missionary from America to enter Germany following World War II when they were granted a special permit to begin work in Frankfurt by General Lucius D. Clay. He has worked there for 7 years, and thus becomes the American with the longest term of service in Germany, on account of the rotation of Army and occupation personnel.

On March 7th, 1954, the Rev. James Wright preached the first sermon in the completed church. Bethel and its members owe much to the many friends who gave words of encouragement and hours of labor, much to conference for the more than generous donations of money; and much to the memory of Reverend Hershel Blankenship whose perseverance made it possible to have a Bethel Church today.

The present pastor, Reverend Louis Joiner continues to help in the advancement of the church.

Blankenship Sr., who vowed to leave New York when teen-aged hoodlums killed his son, said today he may return to the big city and continue his fight against juvenile delinquency.

Blankenship Sr., William, Jr., was to be buried in Sky View Memorial Park today after funeral service at St. John's Lutheran Church.

Blankenship, a research chemist, said he had received "hundreds of phone calls and letters from civic and reform organizations by people interested in those organizations asking me to stay in the city."

He had vowed after his son was shot Saturday night that he would take his family from New York, never to return.

But the appeals to continue his fight against teen gang warfare and moral depravity may change his mind, Blankenship said. A president of the Bronxwood Advisory Council, he was an active fighter against the sort of gangs that killed his son.

Gang member Frank "Tazari" Santana, 17, is charged with shooting Billy and Bronx Dist. Atty. Daniel V. Sullivan said he would seek a first degree murder indictment. Also held by New York police in the killing is Ralph "Rocky" Falcon, a companion of Santana's.

Crappie fishing was listed as improving at Lake Cumberland and Kentucky Lake by the state Fish and Wildlife Resources Department reports yesterday.

Department spokesmen said bass fishing was still the main feature at the other three major lakes - Herrington, Dale Hollow and Dewey.

Good catches were reported at all of the lakes.

Fair Distribution Of Polio Vaccine Promised By Ike

By MICHAEL J. O'NEILL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Eisenhower pledged today that polio vaccine will be distributed swiftly and fairly and that no child will be denied its protection because of inability to pay.

The President told a news conference that the government is going forward with the vaccine program as fast as possible in keeping with safety.

He said he believes a voluntary system for distribution is the best plan for getting the vaccine to children in the quickest and most equitable manner.

He said the government has this determination... never will a child be denied this protection for inability to pay.

Mr. Eisenhower opened his news conference with a discussion on vaccine program, a subject which he said is close to all our hearts.

He said it is a very emotional subject because it deals with lives of children of tender age.

He said one of the problems is to proceed as swiftly as possible with care and safety.

But he cautioned against going too fast. He said this is one case in which it is better to be safe than sorry.

He said he has given all sorts of consideration to federal control of the distribution of Salk vaccine as has been urged by several legislators. But he believes that the present voluntary plan is the best system.

No Racketeering
He said he knew of no evidence of racketeering or blackmarketing in the distribution of the vaccine. He added that small amounts of it were distributed commercially in what proved to be legitimate transactions.

Mr. Eisenhower explained in detail the distribution system worked out by the government under which an advisory committee will make allocations to states and the producing companies will ship to the states on that ratio.

Polio Vaccine Makeup Clinic Is Friday

Dr. J. A. Outland announced today that a make-up clinic for those who missed the Polio vaccination last week will be held at the Health Center on Friday, April 8th, at 9 A.M.

Several children missed their immunizations last week due to absence from school and some absence from illness. There will be a limited amount of vaccine for eligibles who have not signed the parental request.

These designing the vaccine should sign the parental request form at the Health Center at once and report Friday at 9 O'clock for their immunization.

Program And Tour In West Kentucky Has Been Planned

About 70 farm leaders representing USDA, TVA and Agricultural Colleges and Universities of 16 states will observe farmers' cooperative development, Test Demonstration and Farm and Home Development farms in Western Kentucky, May 5 and 6.

The first stop in Kentucky will be at Murray on Thursday afternoon to observe the facilities and operations of Valley Counties of Kentucky Cooperative and the Calloway County Improvement Association. The latter is a farm purchasing and service cooperative owned by 3000 farmer members.

A dinner meeting and program will be held at Kentucky Dam Village for the visiting group.

On Friday morning the Extension Service Program will be explained and three Marshall County farm families visited. Improved pastures and good farm planning and management will be observed at the W. R. Frazier farm near Kentucky Dam. Both farm and home improvements will be observed at the Frank Greenfield farm and an intensive dairy program with a heavy fertilized pasture and forage production plan in operation will be viewed and discussed at the Wavil Joseph farm.

Final stop of the tour will be a luncheon meeting at Kenlake Hotel.

Local farm leaders business men and Agriculture Agents will assist with the tour and meetings in each county. Kentucky State and Area Extension Workers Assisting will include Dr. E. J. Nesius and H. W. Whittenburg of Paducah and C. O. Bondurant of Murray.

Record Breaking Heat Wave Is On

By UNITED PRESS
May 4 A record-breaking heat wave, the first of the year, stretched into the East today ahead of tornado winds and wild thunderstorms.

The heat has been topping Mid-west heat records for two days and threatened to do the same today.

At Detroit, where the 88 degrees Tuesday set a May 3 record, 75 employees of a Chrysler Corp. plant declared "It's too hot to work" and walked off their jobs.

The impromptu walkout forced one shift to shut down and 1,500 workers were sent home.

Chicago had a record breaker for the second straight day when the temperature moved up to a blazing 91.9 degrees. It was the hottest May 3 on record, the hottest day this early in the year, and the hottest day since Sept. 6 last year.

Warner temperatures were forecast in the east as a cold, rainladen air pushed the hot mass ahead of it.

Temperatures early today ranged from a wintry 2 at Bryce Canyon, Utah, to 78 at Fort Worth, Tex. In the Eastern two thirds of the country 80 degree readings were the rule and promised to rise to summery levels.

The meeting will be held at Enix Carpenter Shop on the New Concord road at 7:30 o'clock. All members and other interested persons are urged to attend.

Crappie Fishing On The Upswing

FRANKFORT (AP) - Crappie fishing was listed as improving at Lake Cumberland and Kentucky Lake by the state Fish and Wildlife Resources Department reports yesterday.

Department spokesmen said bass fishing was still the main feature at the other three major lakes - Herrington, Dale Hollow and Dewey.

Good catches were reported at all of the lakes.

Good JOKE

CHICAGO (AP) - Two burglars forced open the rear door of an electronics firm and a booming voice said:

"Good evening, gentlemen. We remind you that this store is electronically guarded."

Then loudspeakers all over the store began shouting:

"Help! Help! Police! Burglars! Thief!"

Officials of the firm said the trick alarm was installed as a joke. The burglars fled empty-handed.

District Tourney To Be Played Here

The District Tournament will be at the Murray High School Tuesday and Wednesday night. On Tuesday night at 7:30 Murray High will play Benton High and on Wednesday night the winner will play the Murray Training School.

Kentucky News Briefs

FRANKFORT (AP) - Rev. A. Logan, Smith Grove, was in the race today for the Democratic nomination for state senator from Allen, Edmonson and Warren counties. He filed his declaration of candidacy for the 7th Senatorial District here yesterday.

LEXINGTON (AP) - V. Elza Beasley, West Somerset, was re-elected president of the Kentucky branch of the National Association of Postmasters at the group's annual meeting here yesterday.

CATLETTSBURGH (AP) - The resignation of Fire Chief William J. Williams was accepted by the City Council Monday. Williams is now employed by the Armo Steel Corp.

LOUISVILLE (AP) - Funeral services will be held here Friday morning for George W. Cucuden of one of America's pioneer ice cream manufacturers. Cucuden, 71 died in Miami yesterday.

WATERLOO, N. Y. (AP) - The do-it-yourself project tackled by Andrew H. Oldfield amounted to quite a bit of work. But when he was through, he had an airplane to fly around in.

Oldfield, a mechanic by trade, spent some 2,000 spare-time hours spread over more than two years to build a trim little airplane. Holder of a private pilot's license, he quickly got the CAA to license the craft.

The biplane - a rarity these days - is of metallic construction and has a wing span of 16 feet, 8 inches. A one-seater powered by a small Continental A80 engine, it weighs only 480 pounds when empty.

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Fearless Fraley's fact and figures:

Bill Skowron, the "new" Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, fell just 217 games short of the long Yankee search for a replacement for the "iron horse."

What brings this to mind is that Monday is the 16th anniversary of the day Gehrig stepped down after playing a record 2130 consecutive games, at first base, Skowron apparently had ended the long Yankee search for a replacement for the "iron horse."

But big Bill will be back, and his 481 batting average indicates that while he may lack Gehrig's endurance, he may come right close in every other way. His tag reads "can't miss."

Crucial Fight
Archie Moore has to put up or shut up on Monday night. That's when he battles Nino Valdes, at Las Vegas, in a bout billed as the "real" world's heavyweight championship. No body has explained what world, but certainly if old Archie loses he won't be able to go around shouting from the house tops that he can lick Rocky Marciano. There is, incidentally, an argument over who is going to referee the bout. Since it's being held in Las Vegas, the issue probably will be decided by cutting a deck of cards.

'Universe' Is Aim

HERE'S petite Ingeborg Friedrich, winning the "Miss Frankfort" title in the annual "Miss Universe" competition which winds up in Long Beach, Calif. Now Ingeborg's got to try for "Miss Germany." She's 5-foot-3, weighs 106, is 18 years old. Claims she'd just love to water ski in Florida. (International)

Florida is missing the boat, according to PGA tournament publicity director Fred Corcoran, by not putting on a series of "second league" tournaments in January and February while the "name" pros are playing in California.

Non-Winners Only
"Florida could sponsor $5,000 purse tournaments open only to non-winners of say, less than $1,000 the previous year," Corcoran disclosed in announcing a proposal before the PGA. "It would help build new names in golf and keep some of the grand old names alive."

The major league pitchers who have been moaning about it "jack rabbit" baseball haven't seen anything yet. In Michigan State's first three baseball games in the big 10 this year the competing teams batted next fall on the gridiron. As example, they may have to describe a play like this:

"Center Joe Badaczewski snaps the ball through quarterback Jim Ninowski's leg, to fullback Rocco Mazzarella. Mazzarella fakes to fullback Walt Kowczyk and now piques to end Tony Kolodziez." It appears as if the announcers will have to be the "Spartans."

Bergen May Sign For Fall Series

By ALINE MOSBY

United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edgar Bergen, a hold-over for regular television, is on the verge of signing for a fall series — but he'd like to give it all up and leave town "because TV is killing off comedians."

For three years the comic ventriloquist sadly has been resisting a regular TV show. Instead, he has done guest spots such as "Alice in Wonderland." "Many people didn't like the way the story was changed," the "Shower of Stars" and now next Sunday's "Colgate Comedy Hour."

"I must make up my mind about this TV series," Bergen said.

In the tradition of comedians off stage, he appears mournful and quiet. He sat sipping soup and hot tea after a "Comedy Hour" rehearsal and meditated on the problems of making audiences laugh.

Just Too Much
"Regular television — there have been enough casualties among comedians to prove I'm right. It's just too much," he said with a sigh.

"But I'll have to do it their way or not at all. It's a problem of sponsor identification. Sponsors want you to be on regularly." Bob Hope and Joan Davis will take a rest from TV next fall, and George Gobel and Jackie Gleason want to film their shows. Bergen foresees the day when TV

3-Time Winner

JOSH CULBREATH, Morgan State athletic star, easily leads the field in the Harry Hillman Memorial 400-meter hurdle race at the opening of the 61st annual Penn Relays Carnival in Philadelphia. It was the third time he has come out victor in the oldest track and field meet in the country. Culbreath's time was 53.2.10 seconds.

will have worn out the funny stars and "are we pushing new ones to take their place?" "You can turn out singers and dancers by the dozens," said Bergen.

This is a brave statement, as the guests on TV with such stars as Gordon MacRae and Sheree North, but he got even braver:

Comedians Need Personality
"You can turn out actors by the dozen, too. But you can't turn out a comedian any old time, just as you can't turn out a pianist or a concert violinist in three or four weeks. It not only takes experience to say those lines, it takes personality."

If he gives up TV, Bergen said, he'd like to take his recent night-club act he created for the Sahara

Little League Umpire Consultant Hired Full Time

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — Howard W. Cair, Umpire-in-Chief, Little League Baseball, Inc., has been engaged at National Headquarters

Hotel in Las Vegas and tour auditoriums around the country. Or he may shoot films abroad with his co-star, Charlie McCarthy.

One last problem of comedians: "I hate to mention heart trouble or other diseases on my program. I never have taken a disease and championed it," Bergen said.

"People look to comedy shows for escape. To put a 'message' on them is mixing water and oil."

as a full-time Umpire Consultant it was announced here today. President Peter J. McGovern.

Cair, a native of Williamsport, Pa., will bring almost 40 years of experience behind the mallet to the thousands of volunteers who presently serve as Little League umpires. He will conduct clinics throughout the country, and bring into play his keen insight into the problems of the umpire developed through his many years of umpiring in Little League at conventional baseball.

Take MY PLACE

By FRANCES SARAH MOORE

CHAPTER SIXTEEN
"OH? WHAT was it, then?"
"I would rather not talk about it."

Landon pushed off the covers and sat up. "You have to, now. You can't hit at something—something mysterious and derogatory—and just leave it dangling!" The darkness felt charged with something ominous, some crackling self-discovery was about to sweep over him, past his evasions.

"Kay," he ordered.

"Go to sleep," Kay said tiredly.

"You won't like what I say," Kay warned her. "You will hate me for knowing what I know about you."

"Go on."

"Your behavior tonight—and that other night—was like jealousy. You mean that I am jealous of you?"

Kay was silent.

"Do you?" Landon insisted. "Is that what you are saying?"

"Yes, I suppose I am. Although you have no cause. None whatsoever."

"No cause?" Landon's voice rose. "No cause—when you and I dance floor to be alone with Eric, and use the feeble excuse of not driving a car? And pretend such shiny-eyed interest in his book? You might be able to fool Maggie with a fancy silk bed-jacket, but I—"

"Stop," Kay moaned softly. "Oh, Landon, stop this please. It's awful."

"You can't take the truth from me, can you?"

"You know better," Kay spoke sadly. "If you want the truth, Landon, why don't you look in your own heart? Sometimes it is the last place you look for—treachery?"

Landon recoiled from the ugly sounding word. Treachery? But it was applicable, it was only to an incident of which Kay could have no possible knowledge. An after-clap of shame startled Landon's heart pounding painfully. But Kay knew nothing at all about those moments in Eric's arms.

Landon sank back on the pillow.

"What a fuss we are making," Kay said in a near-natural voice. "Over nothing."

But Kay was not finished. "Why don't you go away, Landon? Before you are hurt."

"My job is here," Landon reminded her. "Good-night," she said, and eventually she slept.

The days quickened into a busy prelude to Christmas. With Rowena up and about again, Kay Ireland's departure on a more urgent case—an expedition Landon doubted but Trace confirmed—freed Landon from the tension of being on guard. Her mistrust of Kay had become the one under surveillance, and although the subject of their talk in the night was not again referred to, Landon was glad to have Kay gone.

As the household shifted back to normal routine, one change was necessary. Whenever it was necessary for Eric and Landon to be out on the same evening, the Boss came in to stay with Merry-o and Rowena. Eric and Landon decided over one of their midnight snacks that Gran mustn't be left alone again.

Scott returned from his business trip and invited himself to dinner. He brought roses, books, and for Merry-o a clown that did as he pleased when it was wound up. While Landon was filling vases with water, Scott followed her out to the kitchen. "Did you miss me, as you promised?"

"No," she nodded; then on a dim note of wonder, "Yes," she said. "I did, Scott. While Gran was so ill."

"She has been ill? I didn't know."

"It was a stroke—but she is better."

"I'm glad," he bent and kissed her lightly. "It must have been a difficult time for you, though."

"I had Eric. He was wonderful, Scott."

It was a festive, friendly meal. Afterwards, Eric drove out to Brock, taking half the roses and one of the books to Maggie. Convinced her previous strength, Rowena went to bed early. Scott and Merry-o helped Landon with the dishes.

"When Mommy comes home," said Merry-o—the phrase ran like a wistful melody through the conversation now—"I shall be able to help her with the dishes. All but the horribles, of course."

"The pots and pans," Landon explained.

"Landon does those," said Merry-o. "I stack 'em," he told her. "They're half-way to the ceiling. One of these days they are going to come tumbling down on me. Unless I get myself a wife."

"You could get Landon," said Merry-o. "When Mommy comes home Landon won't be here. Where will you be, I wonder?"

Landon wondered, too, but she said nothing.

"Where will you be, I wonder?" Scott asked her, later. Merry-o had gone to bed and the two had the firelit room alone.

"Landon said, 'I haven't thought about it. New York, I suppose.'"

"To the typist's job again?"

Scott drew her into the crook of his arm. "I've got a fireplace. You could be there with me, if you wanted to."

Overwhelmingly, Landon was possessed by a desire to turn her head into his strong shoulder, to forget everything, to take for herself all that Scott's voice was saying lightly. She shook her head, saying lightly, "And have your high tower of horrors fall on me?"

His arm tightened. "I love you, Landon. Marry me, darling." He stroked back a wing of hair from her face, and then kissed her.

Something warm and lovely flowed through Landon. Comfort and sweet, she felt his mouth, firm and good against hers, the answer to almost everything. Her hands moved up, touched his lips. They were trembling. Landon was trembling, too, but not for the same reason Scott was. She saw

TVA Newsletter

TVA reported today that 2,700 miles of rural power lines were built in the TVA area during 1954, bringing the total to 101,000 miles. Electrified farms increased a little over 1 percent during the year.

Of the 440,000 farms in the 90,000 square mile area served with TVA power, more than 411,000, or over 93 percent, were electrified at the end of the year, TVA said. Many of these farms have more than one consumer.

According to the Rural Electrification Administration an average of 92.3 percent of the nation's farms were electrified on June 30, 1954.

Final report on operations of the TVA Clinton (Tenn.) forest tree nursery for the 1954-55 season reveals a record crop of 22,241,650 seedlings was grown, TVA said today. Included were 16,345,450 loblolly pine, 2,203,950 shortleaf pine, and 3,692,250 white pine.

TVA said that tree seed for the 1955-56 season includes 899 pounds of white pine, 2,789 pounds of loblolly pine, and 200 pounds of shortleaf pine. Production for the coming season is estimated at 19,285,000 seedlings, TVA said.

Four hundred and ninety journeymen at three TVA construction projects are attending classes, up side of working hours, designed to improve their efficiency on the job. They are employed at the John Sevier Steam Plant, near Rogersville, Tennessee; the Shawnee Steam Plant, near Paducah, Kentucky; and the Gallatin Steam Plant, near Nashville. They represent eight crafts—steamfitters, boilermakers, carpenters, sheetmetal workers, electricians, plumbers, machinists and ironworkers.

The journeymen study blueprint reading, mathematics, special equipment, electronics, precision measuring, or any other subject of their choice relating to work of the job. The training improves the quality of employees' work in their present positions, enables them to do a

Clothing Project Was Most Interesting Homemaker Work

One of the most useful as well as interesting projects ever studied by Homemakers clubs in Calloway County was clothing. Carried over a five year period the project included selecting fabrics and patterns, fitting, construction, finishing details, basic wardrobe, accessories and grooming, millinery and buying women's clothing. In addition, during three years, a tailoring course has been given for special interest groups.

As a result of these projects members of Homemakers Clubs are better dressed at no more cost, they know how to select commercially made garments as well as how to select fabric and pattern and make a garment, and appreciate how much a well fitted garment with correct accessories adds to their greater variety of work assignments, and provides a more highly skilled work force in the area, TVA said.

Some classes meet two hours a week; others four hours for a total of 32 hours. Frequently the classes are extended for an additional 32 hours when the men become particularly interested and desire course study in the same or another subject. Instructors are TVA employees, usually engineers, general foremen, or foremen. They are made up of representatives of TVA management and the craft unions of the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor Council.

In addition to the journeymen classes, TVA conducts training classes for supervisors, to increase their supervisory skills and knowledge of over-all TVA policies and objectives. Nine hundred thirty seven have completed such courses at Shawnee, Kingston, Widows Creek, Colbert, John Sevier, and Gallatin.

The clothing project began in the fall of 1947 with six lessons on the basic steps in making a simple cotton dress. In the fall of 1948 the project was more advanced with the lessons on constructing a wool dress. A year later the project included planning the basic wardrobe, accessories and grooming. For the first time a tailoring course for a special interest group was offered.

By the end of the first year 79% of members had constructed a cotton dress using the information they had gotten from the lessons. 95 members modeled their dresses in the county wide dress revue, in addition to many of the dresses being displayed in store window displays set up during the National Home Demonstration Week.

At the end of the second year 189 members had made a wool dress according to instructions. The project ended with a dress revue and tea.

A year later all members (325) reported having made or bought at least one basic garment during the year and were planning a basic wardrobe. A revue was held in connection with the annual meeting, in addition to store window displays during National Home Demonstration Week. 41 tailored suits and coats were made as a result of the special interest tailoring course.

During 1953-54 the clubs studied color, new fabrics and millinery. The objectives were for members to gain confidence and ability in selecting hats, acquire sufficient skill to make attractive and becoming hats, acquire information and judgement in selecting becoming colors and acquire information which would aid in wiser selection of material suitable to the purpose and the care required of it.

As a result of the three lessons on making hats, approximately 500 hats were made. Members passed on information from the project to 622 nonmembers. 55 coats and 79 suits were made as a result of county and club tailoring courses.

During the present year 1954-55 the Calloway Homemakers have studied consumer information on buying women's clothing. This project has been unusual in that this is the first county in the state to select it as a major project. Members have learned pointers in buying coats, suits, dresses, shoes, purses, gloves, blouses, hosiery and foundation garments. As a result they plan before buying, make wiser choices and their clothing dollar goes farther.

With no records available for the present year, members have reported that since the beginning of the clothing projects they have made 8,519 garments for members of their family, repaired 3,290 and altered 929 for better fit. Approximately 315 suits and coats have been tailored. Members estimate they have saved a total of $18,887 as a result of information and skills they have learned through the clothing projects.

Many individual members reported their experiences during the clothing projects or as a result of them. Only a few are given below:

During the first year an unexpectedly large number said the dress they had just completed was the first one they had ever made and that they had not realized the difference in cost of a homemade dress and a comparative ready-made one. One woman with little sewing experience, unknowingly selected gingham with a right and left as well as an up and down design. It took her and her leader one-half day to place the pattern and cut out her dress. She said she would never forget the importance of matching a plaid or stripe or the "know-how" of doing it.

Leaders and members often said they were now much more observant of wearing apparel in general and especially notice the fit of dresses. One leader, after a lesson on fitting, said she could hardly make clothing look "handmade" rather than "homemade." Several members add to the family income by making clothes for others.

The total results of the clothing projects will never be known. But from reports given and observation it is felt that the projects filled a real need in Calloway County. The average farm family has only a limited sum of money to be spent for clothes. Yet the farm family likes to be well dressed and attractive in appearance the same as any other family. With this information she learned and the skills she gained during the projects, a member of a Homemakers Club can help her family achieve this.

SUDDEN HAIL STORM HITS FLORIDA

FRANCES GAIL FRIEDMAN shovels hail the size of marbles in front of her home in Miami Beach, after a sudden and destructive thunderstorm raced down Florida's east coast. The storm, reaching peak winds of 130 miles an hour, pelted cities along the way with hail the size of eggs. Trees were uprooted, windows smashed and water seeped into homes and hotels at Miami Beach, Fort Pierce and Fort Lauderdale. There were no reports of any deaths. (International)

Downed in Saigon

THE FOREIGN Operations Administration told reporters in Washington that there is a "possibility" that U.S. Government photographer Everett D. Reese (above), who was shot down over Indochina, is alive. Reese, 31, of Houston, Tex., was on an aerial mission in a plane piloted by a French flier. Reports from Saigon said a wing was shot off while the craft was flying over an area held by the rebel Binh Xuyen forces. (International)
